(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
TOKIO, Nov. 6.—"When we think that the Bible, which was presented to the emperor today by Dr. Sturge, is a book whose teachings were interdicted within this realm less than fifty years ago, we have some idea of the great development of the Japanese empire." That was one of the most striking remarks made during a notable dinner of 300 representative Japanese, who assembled last night to express their gratitude to Dr. E. A. Sturge, of San Francisco, who has done much in the interest of the Japanese residents on the Pacific coast and much to develop the relations of friendship between Japan and the United States.

The function of last night was in a sense a coronation festival for it followed the presentation to the Emperor by Dr. Sturge of a beautiful Bible, contributed as a coronation gift by the Christian Japanese who live in the United States. It had been intended to present the Bible at Kio-to during the coronation week, but the program of the emperor is so filled that it was deemed best to present it immediately. The Bible is bound in pure white leather, has the "rising sun" embossed on the outside in red, while on the inside of the covers is represented the empire of Japan in gold side by side with the Distress in the Stomach.

There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after each meal. Mrs. Henry Padgham, Victoria, N. Y., writes: "For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

coast line of the United States. The idea of the engravings, which include also the national flags, is that Japan and America are bound together in lasting friendship.

Beside being an expression of gratitude to Dr. Sturge, the meeting was a striking manifestation of Japanese-American friendship. All of the speakers, who included Viscount Kaneko, Admiral Baron Uriu, Baron Kanda, Dr. Soyeda and others dwell impressively upon the desire of Japan to continue and develop her amicable relations with the United States.

Dr. Soyeda, who is president of the Japanese railways, went further than voicing the usual expression of friendship. After saying that Japan could never forget that the United States had led her into the paths of righteousness he declared: "I want to say this: in case of danger arising to the American Republic, I am confident that our compatriots who reside within the borders of the United States would be ready to spend their last penny and give up their lives to help save that Republic if it were in danger."

Dr. Sturge was grateful for the warmth of the reception accorded to him. He said he felt somewhat ashamed to come to Japan after the disagreeable things that had occurred in California, but he was delighted to find that the Japanese people were showing him even greater kindness than during his visit several years ago.

TO DECIDE FATE OF REPUBLIC
AT THE POLLS*China Will Hold a Primary Election to Settle Question of Republic or Monarchy.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
PEKING, Nov. 6.—President Yuan Shi-kai's latest plan is to have the provinces decide whether China is to be a republic or a monarchy. Primaries probably will be held soon to select delegates to the citizens' conference which will act upon a new constitution, and the men named by the districts of the various provinces will be utilized to decide the form of government China is to have before they come to Peking and actually ratify the completed constitution.

Government officials explain that about 1,800 delegates will be selected at the primaries. These are scattered among the various provinces according to their population. In addition the Manchus and Mohammedans will be given special representation and Peking has extra delegates. This special representation, it is explained by government officials, will amount to about 200, so the total number of men who will pass on the form of government will be about 2,000.

Tangled Mandates.

Chinese election machinery is involved in such a tangle of mandates and decrees that foreigners are unable to understand it, and the press which is opposed to the government repeatedly declares nobody really understands it. However, the claim of President Yuan Shi-kai and his supporters is that the primaries will be held under absolutely fair conditions which will give the public a chance to select men representative of public sentiment.

After the delegates have been selected they will be given two alphas. One registers approval of the republic and the other favors a monarchy. They will vote for their favorite form of government and the results will be tabulated in Peking. It was at first rumored the delegates in each province would select one of their number to come to Peking and register his vote as representing the delegation from his province, but President Yuan Shi-kai and his advisers have abandoned that plan, saying they wish to keep the delegates free from Peking influence and will probably have the voting on form of government in the provincial capitals.

With Yuan's army in control of all the provincial capitals, the enemies of the monarchical plan insist there is no chance that a majority vote will be counted against the monarchy. There is also widespread criticism of the qualifications tentatively agreed upon for delegates to the citizens' conference. Only men who have $20,000 worth of personal property or $30,000 worth of real property may qualify. They must also be men who have served the government as magistrates or in higher official positions for at least five years and must have the equivalent of a high school education.

Few Progressives in Office.
As the republic has been in existence less than five years, the provision that delegates must have held office for a longer period assures the choice of men who were in favor under the monarchy, few progressives having held office under the Manchus. Special representation to the Manchus and to Peking, it is also pointed out by supporters of the republic, will not endanger the cause of the monarchists. But the president and his supporters urge it is necessary to adopt the requirements agreed upon to insure the intelligence and integrity of the men entrusted with decision upon the future form of state. After the delegates have voted upon the monarchical question the constitution drafting committee, which has now at work in Peking, will proceed with its work, following out the will of the delegates. When the drafting committee shall have completed its work the provincial delegates will be summoned to Peking to sit as the citizens' conference and ratify the constitution. This conference, unless present plans be altered, will probably be summoned by the president about January 1 of next year.

Censorship of the press and telegraph has been instituted by the government and foreign correspondents are protesting vigorously against delay in their messages. No official announcement has been made of any censorship and up to the present time the work has been carried on under cover and in such a manner that it is highly unsatisfactory to correspondents.

A Half Timber English House

Designed by Chas. S. Sedgwick, Architect.

This English half timber house is one that was recently planned for a city in Canada. It was built frame construction, very substantial with Oriental brick used from the grade line to the window sills, and the walls above finished with half timbers and cement stucco with a cream tint. All the half timbers, cornices and other outside trimmings were stained dark brown. The roofs are shingled, the shingles dipped and brushed with dark red creosote stain. The English style of treatment of the exterior is successfully handled and the symmetry of the front is both dignified and artistic. The main story is ten feet in height, the second story nine feet and the attic story finished complete with good rooms, amusement hall, etc. The basement also is finished complete. The arrangement of the plan is well adapted to a south or west frontage, the house is 48 feet front by thirty-five feet depth exclusive of piazzas.

There is a central porch entrance with a porte-cochere and driveway in front and an open terrace on either side with tiled floors. The central entrance is liberal with wide, square hall, with a front central fireplace and main stairway opposite. The large living room across the right hand side is amply lighted and provided with wide open fireplace, book shelves, etc. The dining room on the left, pantry in the rear of the same, kitchen, rear entry, etc., are all conveniently arranged. At the rear of the dining room at the left side of the house is a large screened piazza with sleeping porch above and garage below entered from the rear. The principle rooms on the first floor are finished with beam ceilings and all in oak.

The second floor has three large chambers, ample closets, a den in front of the central hall with fireplace, two large bath rooms, linen closets, etc., complete, with stairs extending from basement to attic story. The sleeping porch opening from the left side chamber is sixteen feet square, glazed on three sides, making a very desirable room for its purpose. The whole of the second floor is finished in white enamel, red mahogany doors and birch floors. Also the third story is finished in white with fir floors. This is a very beautiful home and a design that has been very much admired. It can be built in most any part of the country for from $10,000 to $12,000.
